Corowa Swim-In Remailer

Introduction

Corowa Swim-In Re-mailer

The internet and email have proved to be an invaluable resource for so many in the ex-military vehicles hobby. Many of those who attend Corowa or have an interest in the event have friendships and connections they have made via the internet. Quite often it is years after these connections are made that people finally meet in person. From the early days of the internet the connections took place, many having made international connections dating back to the mid-1980s.

However, there are few Australian members and very little Australian content. Our large distances in Australia and proportionally small population mean that of all countries, we should be making the most of anything that allows collectors to stay in touch with each other.

There are also several "forums" where the more internet active collectors "meet", however they may not suit those who don't "surf" the web or have slow connections.

Because the major Australian MV event is Corowa, there is an opportunity for a re-mailer to serve both the Corowa event and Australian ex-military vehicle collectors. We hope this free service will do that.

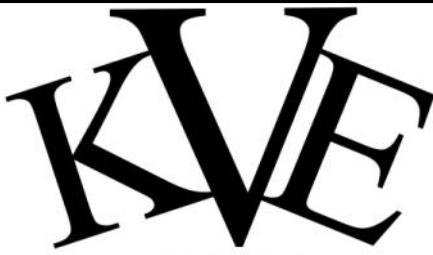

It is a place to meet, discuss and share your experiences and knowledge with like-minded people specifically for discussion relating to the KVE Corowa military vehicle rally.

In order to provide as much protection for subscribers against junk email as possible, the re-mailer has been made hard for search engines to find. Thus you will need to type into your browser page the following address:

<http://au.groups.yahoo.com/group/Corowa-Swim-In/>

If you are not already a free member of the Yahoo service, please email Doug at the address below for detailed instructions on how to navigate the joining process.

User Rules

Welcome to the Corowa Swim-In Forum/Re-mailer.

Corowa-Swim-In@yahogroups.com.au

This is the place to meet, discuss and share your experiences and knowledge with like-minded people specifically for discussion relating to the Corowa military vehicle gathering organised by Khaki Vehicle Enthusiasts Incorporated. (KVE Inc)

To make things as enjoyable as possible for everyone we had to establish a few ground rules:

- A. Political discussion is strongly discouraged and may have the protagonists placed in moderation mode.
- B. Personal attacks or the use of unacceptable language will result in an immediate ban.
- C. Blatant commercial advertising is unacceptable.

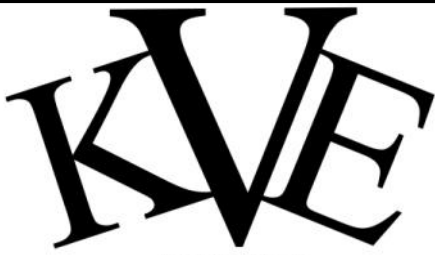

Access to the group is by approval - this is to stop spammers and email bots from collecting users email addresses or inappropriately using the list.

It is a requirement of membership of this list that you identify yourself in all messages. Anonymous posters will be placed in moderation mode and their messages blocked. Yahoo ID is not considered an acceptable identity, you are required to state (at a minimum) your real first name in your posts.

There are 4 options for Emails from this list:

- 1) "Individual emails" = you receive all emails soon after they are sent.
- 2) "Daily digest" = 1 x email per day which contains all of the emails sent in the past 24 hours.
- 3) "Special notices" = Effectively this will be KVE originated, the occasional moderator originated and little else. You will NOT receive the general list traffic.
- 4) "No email" = You receive nothing, to read emails you must log in to Yahoo, navigate to the list home page and read them in the archive.

You need to select the appropriate option for you. You can change your option at any time by logging in to this group.

User Rules

Rules and common sense.

Please read and keep these rules in mind when making posts (sending in emails)

1) Always keep in mind, that anything that appears on the internet very rarely ever vanishes completely. Before you click the "send" button, read your email and consider how it may be interpreted by someone who doesn't know you. You are effectively creating a historical document.

2) Your posts (emails) should be authored keeping in mind that there is a varied audience. There will be women and children as well as all walks of life reading what you have written. Use appropriate language and keep it civil.

3) Before you are tempted to "flame" someone you disagree with, go and make a cup of tea, calm down and review what has brought you to this point. If you think you have been wronged, send an email to the moderators by putting "moderator request" in the subject line. If you get into a flaming session, in all likelihood both you and the opposite party will both get your privileges suspended. Step back and think about it.

4) "Taking it off-list" - You need to think about what you are putting out there for the world to see. Personal chit chat is best taken off-list, so is anything that could be considered "sensitive", have "legal" ramifications or could be plain boring to most people. You can take something off-list just by clicking "Reply-All" and REMOVING Corowa-Swim-In from the address line. This should leave only the address of the person who sent the email. When doing so, make the first line of your reply to the person "I have taken this off list", so they realise you have gone private. You also should remove the [Corowa-Swim-In] portion from the email subject line.

5) Guns - leave the subject alone. If you want to discuss it, take it off-list.

We look forward to seeing you on the Corowa Swim-In forum.
